SCHENKER ITALIA, METS 09.9101

Schenker Italia introduce two new products this year. The new generation Schenker Watermakers are directly powered from service batteries, and are intended for medium to large boats. Thanks to the patented Energy Recovery System, the electric consumption is 80% lower than for traditional devices. The fresh water production is extremely high, up to 2,400 litres per day, and the watermakers are reliable because of the innovative construction methods used.

The new electronic control is based on a digital remote panel of very small dimensions that can be located in any boat location. The system eliminates any manual operation, as it has a luminous display that performs all the functions automatically. The control system helps the user during the planned maintenance operations, generating at the appropriate moments, and sending messages that indicate the correct operation to make.
